About the Artist

Richard Michaux was born and raised in Pittsburgh, PA. He first studied painting and drawing with Mr. Hurbert in high school.

Pursuing his career, Richard went to Ivy School of Professional Art in downtown Pittsburgh. Private lessons of drawing and painting with Odel Abney piqued his interest to continue his career.

Rich then went to Portland School of Fine and Applied Art where he was introduced to sculpture and lithography, continuing studies under John Ventiniglia and lithography with John Gardner.

After three years in Portland, Maine, he returned to Pittsburgh to study Portrait Sculpture with Eugene Gittings at the Pittsburgh Center for the Arts.

Today he continues his creative work through the eyes of the private sector.

Commissions for portrait sculptures, mantles and prints are welcomed.

Rich was the Construction Manager for Habitat Allegheny Valley until surgery that went bad left him unable to do his construction work any longer. We are thrilled to give Rich an opportunity to teach our area children just a little of what he knows in the art field.
